Academic Reorganization

Academic Reorganization

The rationale for the academic reorganization and program analysis was five fold as indicated below:

- Enhance programming and research productivity of an institution designated as Doctoral Higher Research
- Foster sustainable enrollment growth
- Enhance student readiness for a more competitive global market place
- Foster operational efficiencies and institutional performance
- Create opportunities for new and innovative programming

Expected Outcomes and Measures of Success

Enhanced recognition of the Institution as a nationally competitive landgrant doctoral research institution

- Enhanced program national and international rankings
- Increased external funding
- Enhanced faculty research and scholarly productivity
- Enhanced University national and international rankings
- Enhanced graduate enrollment
- Enhanced undergraduate enrollment
- Enhanced number of Students receiving national fellowships

- The College of Health and Human Sciences capitalizes upon synergistic relationships among the programmatic areas and faculty of human performance and leisure studies, psychology, social work, sociology, and nursing.

Departments: Human Performance and Leisure Studies, Psychology, Social Work and Sociology, and School of Nursing

- The College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences raises program visibility and enhances student preparation for the workforce, and/or graduate/professional schools.

Departments: English, History, Journalism Mass Communication, Liberal Studies, Political Science & Criminal Justice, and Visual & Performing Arts

Best Place to Work Culture

Developing a Best Place to Work Culture through:

- Continuous improvement in transparency of expectations, hiring practices and qualifications.
- Create professional development opportunities.
- Create a self-service model, based upon increased communication and access to pertinent information.
- Continuous improvement/engagement activities with new hires and current faculty & staff.
- Utilize focus groups to identify and address the needs of faculty and staff.
- Provide informative workshops/sessions that are relevant to a healthy lifestyle, i.e., mentally, financially, physically.
- Incorporate training and increase the availability of new and existing technology to promote best practices and efficient processes.

Faculty and Staff of the Future

Faculty and Staff of the Future addresses the requirements to achieve Preeminence 2020 and beyond. It is the planning, developing, and operationalizing of priorities set forth by the institution to continue to represent excellence in student, faculty and staff preparation through engagement and exceptional experiences.

Faculty and Staff of the Future focuses on 3 key areas:

Faculty and Staff of the Future

- Significant fraction of retirement eligible faculty
- Enhance faculty expertise in teaching, research, scholarly activities, and community engagement through recruitment and faculty development
- Achieve balance between tenure stream and non-tenure stream faculty
- Faculty and staff develop to facilitate student success

Faculty Recruitment/Development

- Required search committee training (i.e., bias training, recruiting, etc.)
- Developed resources/samples to engage the search committee and create consistency amongst committees
- Disciplinary and market driven salary ranges
- More effectively use endowed professor positions
- Expansion of fall and spring orientation (i.e., tenure, accreditation, branding, etc.)
- More competitive start-up packages for new faculty

Clarification of Roles

Student Success

Engagement/Expectations

What is the NTTF current classification?

- Numerous Titles
- Variable number of courses
